Other comments

We were extremely encouraged by the many positive comments that were submitted, many of you indicating that you would be happy to help in various different ways to help fund the site to keep it free access. Comments included:

"palliativedrugs.com is a FANTASTIC resource. Information is comprehensive, broad and well set out. I truly commend you all for your efforts in making this available to us all free of charge. Thank you"

"I think this website is a fantastic resource. I have found it very useful to read the usually very speedy feedback from colleagues around the world, particularly as the evidence base in palliative medicine is often sketchy, hard to find or non-existent"

"This is a wonderful service that makes an enormous difference to practice"

"palliativedrugs.com is a useful resource for my work in general practice in Australia"

"Excellent website, constantly fresh with new information. Indispensable resource"

"Thank you for the great work you do - the website is of immense value especially for colleagues in Africa and Asia"

"It is an excellent site, I am always recommending it to colleagues. However just doing this survey has made me realise I am not using it to its fully potential from a news round up, latest additions perspective".

Thank you also for valuable feedback suggesting ways in which we could help improve the site further, we will consider the incorporation of your suggestions. Please continue to let us know of anything you think we could improve by sending an email to hq@palliativedrugs.com.
